

CALL FOR PAPERS

EUSIPCO is the premier European conference on signal processing. The 30th edition of EUSIPCO will be held in Belgrade, the dynamic capital of Serbia. Famed as the city that never sleeps, Belgrade is endowed with a long and storied history. It sits on a confluence of two rivers and boasts intricate architecture spanning ages from Byzantine to romantic to art nouveau. Likewise, the EUSIPCO'22 technical program will include keynotes by distinguished speakers, tutorials and special sessions, and cutting-edge research presentations on topics that span a gamut of topics that are driving the science and engineering of signal processing today.

The organizing committee is inviting submission of original unpublished technical papers on all topics related to signal processing, including but not limited to:

- Signal processing theory and methods
- Image/video and multidimensional signal processing
- Audio and acoustic signal processing
- Signal processing over graphs and networks
- Nonlinear signal processing
- Machine learning/deep learning methods and neural networks
- Optimization methods in signal processing
- Compressed sensing and sparse modelling
- Signal processing for overcoming hardware imperfections?
- Statistical signal processing
- Signal processing and data fusion for big and multimodal data
- Information forensics and security
- Multimedia signal processing
- Sensor array & multichannel signal processing
- Computer vision and robotics
- Bio-medical signal processing
- Bioinformatics and genomics
- Signal processing for social networks?
- Computational imaging
- Remote sensing, radar and sonar
- Signal processing for communications & communication networks
- Signal processing for the internet of things
- Signal processing for power systems
- Speech and language processing
- Signal processing for autonomous vehicles
- Signal processing for education
- Design and implementation of signal processing systems
